3. Just be-fore I went to bed, I

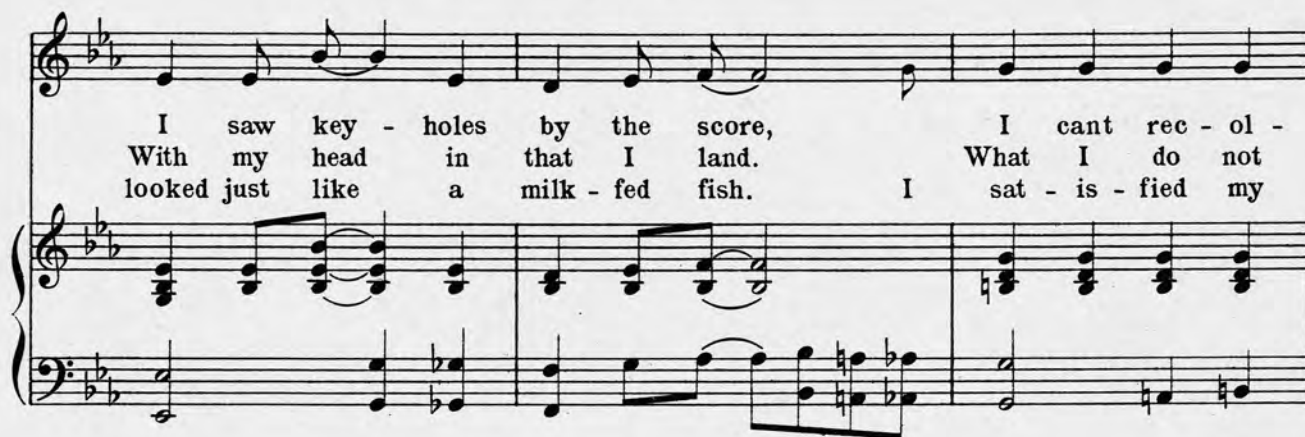

With a par-ty, friends of mine. I guess I drank too much wine, Found some soap-suds on the floor. Slipped, and al-most broke my jaw.
got a no-tion in my head; That my stom-ach should be fed. So

For when day was dawn-ing, Some-one took me to my door.
On the kitch-en fi-re, Ash-can stood right there at hand,
I looked for some feed-ing. Up-on the tubs I found a dish, It

I saw key-holes by the score, I cant rec-ol-
With my head in that I land. What I do not looked just like a milk-fed fish. I sat-is-fied my lect no more, But I sang next morn-ing.

un-der-stand, Is how I did re-tire.
hun-gry wish, But found it darn tough eat-ing.

“NEVER NO MORE.”

My poor feet they hurt me so ;
What's the reason I don't know.
Some one told me I should go
And get some foot-ease powder.
I got it in a druggist store.
The man said, Use a handful or more.
I put it in a glass, and water did pour,
And drank the whole blame chowder.

Chorus: Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (hic) no more.
My poor feet they hurt me worse
Than they ever did before.
But a few pigs' feet which I had eaten
Ran a Marathon Race, which couldn't be beaten.
Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (hic) no more.

I thought a trip across the sea
Would do a lot of good for me;
But where it comes in I can't see,
To sail across the ocean.
Aboard a ship, we're always told,
That everything is kept down in the hold ;
But to hold things down, while the darn ship rolled,
Caused in me a great commotion.

Chorus: Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (hic) no more.
In the future I prefer
To stay upon the shore.
All that whole trip I was ailing,
Six days sailing on the railing.
Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (hic) no more.

I went out in a machine
That smells, and runs by gasoline.
It would not go, it acted mean,
So I had to crawl under.
The gasoline was leaking out,
It ran straight into my mouth.
I dared not smoke when I crawled out,
For fear I'd blow asunder.

Chorus: Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (sneeze) no more.
Both my eyes, and nose, and mouth,
Were feeling awful sore.
I puff and wheeze when I get going,
All day long my horn I'm blowing.
Oh Gee! Poor me! Never (auto horn) no more.
