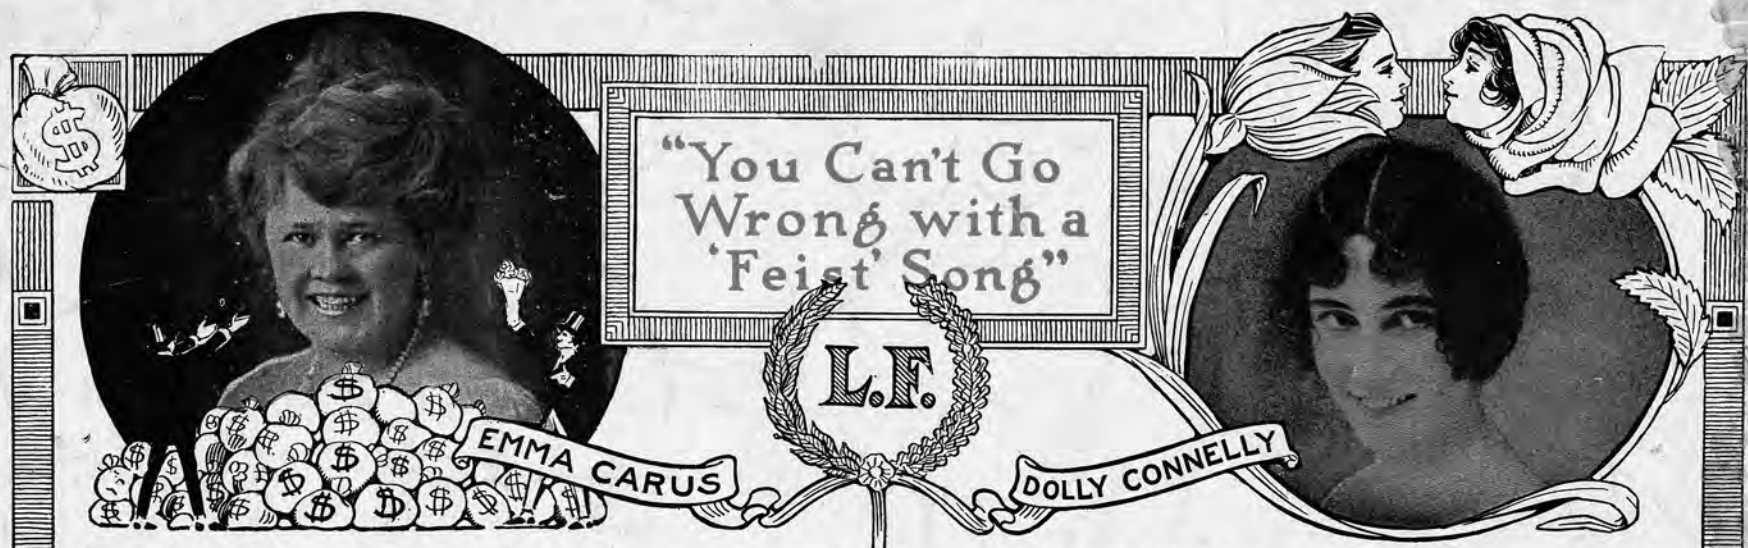
Two "NEW" Sure-Fire SONG HITS

AS ADVERTISED IN

"THE SATURDAY EVENING POST"



"THE HIGH COST OF LOVING"

Dedicated to LEW FIELDS, starring in the "Hit" play of the same name, now in New York.

Poor fellows! Pray what earthly chance
Have the youths today who look askance
At the "High Cost of Loving"?

EMMA CARUS, the well-known favorite, wires: "High Cost of Loving" is the most instantaneous hit I have ever introduced.

Get a copy today of this most talked-about song that hits the high spots, knocks out the blues, and puts you in right. The dashing lyrics are by Al Bryan and the gripping melody is by Geo. Meyers.

"WHEN YOU WORE A TULIP AND I WORE A BIG RED ROSE"

If the witchery and charm of "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet," or "Moonlight Bay" still delight you, don't let today pass without getting this latest and best ballad—"When You Wore a Tulip and I Wore a Big, Red Rose," by the same composer, Percy Wenrich; lyrics by Jack Mahoney.

The principal cities are just getting a hearing of it through the tour of Dolly Connelly, who reports phenomenal success with it.

This song certainly "strikes twelve"—pretty sentiment and delightful music will drive you to it.

Don't go home tonight without it.
