York University's Theatre Glendon is proud to present Execution of Faith - a student initiated project, produced in conjunction with the 4th year Independent Study course offered through Glendon College's Drama Studies program. Execution of Faith was written by Jonathan Boehm and Todd Cleland. Boehm and Cleland also star, along with a number of other Glendon students.

Execution of Faith explores the shadowy regions of human nature: free will, thought, feelings, guilt and the distinguishing of right from wrong. Life is not always black and white – not all puppies and flowers - and sometimes the most complicated problems can have the simplest solutions. If they have a solution at all...
