GLENDON IS SOWING SEED

Theatre Glendon presents an exciting new work, SEED, from Tuesday, December 7 - Saturday, December 11. Written by Michael V Smith, and directed by Daphne Paszterko, SEED is a workshop production for the open-minded theatre going audience.

Growing out of more than two years' worth of exploring his relationship to a writer (and writings of) Peter McGehee, Michael V Smith's play SEED makes this relationship concrete.

SEED is a fictional story of these two writers, one living, one dead, who have developed an intimate relationship in the intimate, but public theatre.

Both a coming to terms with and a movement beyond mortality, self and love, SEED is the poetry of a theatre and the beauty of a Peter.

Performances of SEED will be at 8:00p.m. in Theatre Glendon. Ticket prices are $5.00 for students and $7.00 for the general public. For more information and ticket reservations please call Mary Roussos at 241-2913, or the box office at 487-6722. Please note that reserved tickets should be picked up by 7:30p.m.
