

THEATRE GLENDON PRESENTS

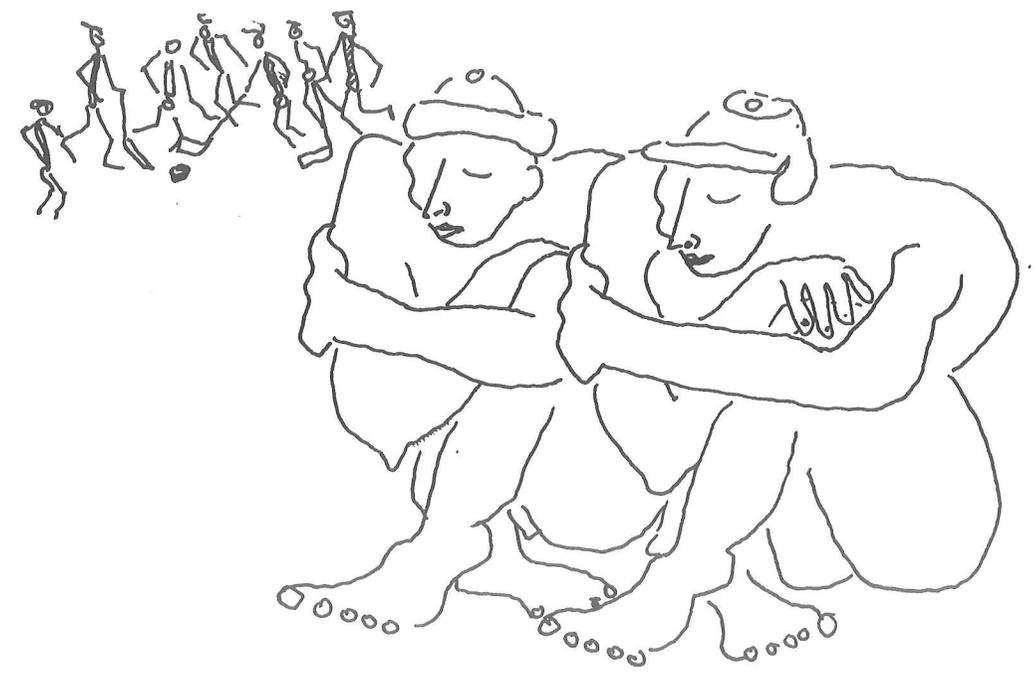

WINTER - THE PLAY

Welcome to our evening's presentation. The work you are about to see is particularly challenging not only because the students are creating all the scenes you are about to see, but also because the theme of winter connecting the various pieces has been rather arbitrarily imposed upon them. Much like fledgeling ducks, they have been unceremoniously thrown into the water (or in this case the snow) and told to swim.

It has been said by some people - a majority of them being actors - that the pleasure I find in the ensuing results borders on the perverse or even the sadistic. I do, however, find it a fertile ground for valuable theatre experience and even the odd laugh. I hope you will also.
