ALICE LLOYD'S VERSION

Over The Hills And Far Away.

1.

Sweetheart don't sigh,
Dearie don't cry,
You will be mine in June.
Over the hills and far away, we'll spend our honeymoon,
Singing Love's song, all the day long,
As hand in hand we roam, and right from the start,
As Queen of my heart, and Queen of my home sweet home.

CHORUS.

Over the hills and far away,– far away,– far away,–
Roaming the fields of new mown hay,
We'll spend our holiday,– Sweet Girlie;
Under the same old shady tree,– shady tree,– you and me,
Just like two little kids at play,
Over the clover hills and far away.

In just one year,
He said "My Dear,
You'll have to go I fear,
Over the hills and far away, your health demands it dear.
I'll have to stay in town each day,
Can't leave my business Flo.
Remember now, 'Sweet,'– you can't stand the heat,
The doctor says you must go."

CHORUS.

Over the hills and far away,– far away,– far away,–
He sent his wife one sunny day,
Then telephoned to May,– Sweet Girlie;
May was his new affinity,– 'finity,– Soul Kissey,
Wife's gone away Hip, Hip, Hurray!
Over the clover hills and far away.

3.

He used to write,
Wife every night,
"Stay where you are, my dear; Can't get away to join you Love,
I've pressing business here.
Working away all night and day,
There is so much to do,
"Sweet Rosy Cheeks," am reading "Three Weeks"
And dreaming Sweetheart of you."

CHORUS.

Over the hills and far away,– far away,– far away,–
Fly little wife came home one day,
Surprising him and May,– Sweet Girlie;
Dear little Wifey then did say,
"You're working, Eh? night and day,
We'll ship this Blonde from this Café,
Over the clover hills and far away."
