I wandered today up the street, Maggie, and could not realize
That this rotten dump was the street, Maggie, that pleased out youthful eyes.
The old movie show that we loved, Maggie, shows nothing but sexy slush,
The posters they have out in front, Maggie, would make a tough sailor blush.
The girls on the streets are in pants, Maggie, the men wearing necklaces and curls
The women all look like the men, Maggie, the men all seem to be girls.
The Homos are honored and praised, Maggie, and women attacked on the streets,
A nd none of the new aliens work, Maggie, their lives are a government treat.
The house on the hill once so swell, Maggie, today belongs to a coon,
And he burned all the wood-work last year, Maggie, to heat was was left of a room.
The tax-payer pays for the lot, Maggie, politicians are reaping it all,
The older folk live on a pittance, Maggie, while congressmen are having a ball.
The niggers are running the land, Maggie, and more voting blacks come and come,
Our world has become very sad, Maggie, since you and I were Young by John Rossman.
