HEARTS

Poem by DAVE KOHN

Every life has its story,
And many tales oft untold;
Some lives are filled with devotion,
While other's grown cruel and cold.
Each page in the life book remind us
Of things no tongue dare impart,
Yet all our joys and sorrows
Are deeply engraved on our hearts.

CHORUS

Hearts that are cast in sorrow,
Hearts that are dancing with joy,
Hearts thrilled with ambition,
Hearts of mothers for their boys.
Hearts that will bear the burden
Of true love, 'twill never depart.
There are hearts that are always sighing,
Hearts, Brave Hearts.

Every page in man's history—
Many tales told and retold—
Of brave hearts that were so gallant
To do great deeds, brave and bold.
The age that we live in instructs us,
Things that we do ne'er depart,
For all of our mistakes are on record,
Deeply engraved on our hearts.
