To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to disclose, in accordance with Faculty of Graduate Studies regulations concerning the originality of a dissertation, that a small portion of my dissertation was previously published in an article that appeared in the journal Dichtung Digital. This material was substantively edited, rewritten, and subsequently incorporated into passages that appear in the first two chapters. This material introduces the theoretical concerns addressed in the dissertation but does not constitute an essential component of the dissertation's originality. My use of the material meets the requirements set forth by the Faculty of Graduate Studies regarding the use of previously published material.

The publication of the material in question previously did not involve the assignment of copyright to the journal, and there are no copyright restrictions on its inclusion in my dissertation.

I have provided my supervisor, [REDACTED], with a detailed description of the passages in question for approval.

Regards,
