MEMORIES OF FRANCE

(To Chorus Melody)

By AL DUBIN

The war has long been forgotten,
And it's best that we should forget,—
It's an old story now, but still, somehow,
There are dreams that linger yet.

It's not the dream of the battle
And it's not the shot and the shell,—
It's the mem'ry of a doughboy in love
And a sweet little Mademoiselle.

You can blot out the mem'ry of bullets
When the years roll by like this,
But you can't erase a beautiful face
And the mem'ry of a kiss.

You can even forgive the enemy,—
Forgive them as time goes by,
But as long as you live you'll never forgive
Yourself,—For saying goodbye.

Maybe she wasn't your sweetheart,—
You considered her only a toy,
But when God made her kind, He had in mind
A homesick soldier boy:

Sing Last Ending

She would laugh, she would cry,
Then a kiss, then "goodbye,"
In my memories of France.
