Allegro moderato

I think the mar - ried men are get-tin' a trim - min';
I know a lot — of men who nev-er will leave — 'em,

And still I hate — to knock the
And then a lot — of men who beau-ti-ful wo - men, Oh, gee! what can the trou-ble be? You read, of course, ev-'ry day some di-vorce, nev-er be-lieve 'em, Oh, my! how they can tell — a lie; Look in your eye, and de-ny and de-ny,

No mat-ter, where you go, you hear of a scan - dal, Why are the wo - men get-ting hard-er to hand - le?
They get ex-ci - ted, then you pet 'em and salve — 'em, Where would we be — to-day if we did-n't have — 'em?

Who's to blame, — who's to blame? — Love is a ter - ri - ble game: ——
Cold as ice, — then they're nice, — Some fel-lows mar - ry them twice. ——

AS ADVERTISED IN THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

IF NOT, DO SO NOW, YOU'LL BE MORE THAN PLEASED

Big Innovation in Popular Sheet Music

HERE is the biggest step forward in the history of popular sheet music since the advent of the giant printing press.

Entire song in sight NO LEAVES to turn or lose

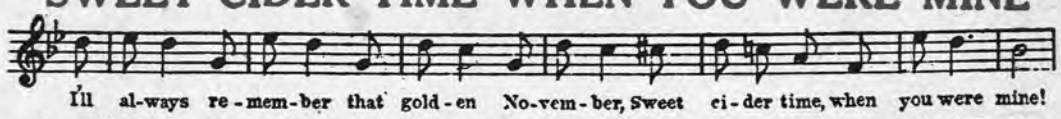
Just think! You can play and sing the entire song from beginning to end without turning a page. Every note is clearly before your eyes—large and distinct. No embarrassing pauses while pianist struggles with loose or missing leaves—or, as very often happens, comes to a dead stop while some kind friend picks the loose sheet from the floor. A blessing which every player—every singer—will welcome.

This Feist-conceived idea we gladly give to the public

It is only another link in that ever-growing chain of evidence which proves that in the music world "you can't go wrong with any 'Feist' song."

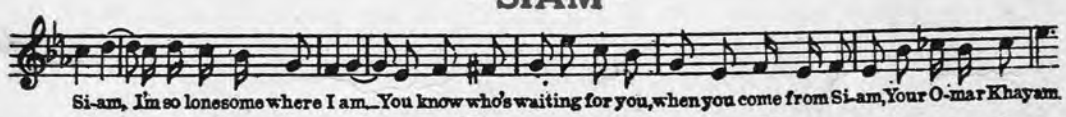
Here are the two newest songs published in the "easy-to-read" form. No extra charge for this, the greatest innovation in Popular Sheet Music.

"SWEET CIDER TIME WHEN YOU WERE MINE"



Here is a "bird's-eye" view of the latest hit by the writers of "Tulip and Rose," and "Norway." A feast of memories! A flood of melody! A hit on a thousand vaudeville stages. Words by Joe McCarthy; music by Percy Wenrich. Sung by Walter Van Brunt, the Edison Star.

"SIAM"



A novelty ballad. Sweetly swelling, voluptuous cadences charm the ear as Omar Khayam entreats Siam to come to her Persian Garden, Emma Carus' great hit! Words by Howard Johnson, music by Fred Fischer.
