PAPAVENTO

Now isn't it naws-ty of Pa-paw To re-ject such a beau-ti-ful daugh-ter-in-law? My brain's in a whirl At the loss of the girl, You'll par-don the slang, It's exceed-ingly raw! Don't think for a moment that I am upset, The matter won't cause me the slightest regret. Let doting "Papa" choose his daughter-in-law; Now the incident's closed. You must try to forget. I can't! It drives me wild! Let me speak to him, my child! You may tell your doting father. That I'd see my daughter rather in a cloister or a nun-ner-y for life; That her heart cannot be won by his cabbage-headed son; I would not consent that she should be his wife!  This old octo-geranium is flimsy in his cranium; Tell him, I'm not beset with foolish fears. If he should come into my shop, I'd make him wiggle, wait, and hop, For threatening to cut off both my
