1. Leaving old Spain's haughty towers,
   Spain, the fair
2. Gliding like frolicsome waters,
   Whirling like
3. Lithe as a young mountain panther Springs from the land of her birth,

Hither she comes, crowned with flowers,
foam on a stream;
Gay as old Ocean's bright daughters
bough where he's hid;
Dark as the tulip's tall another

Star of mad dance and young mirth! Ev'rywhere votaries hail her
Chasing the moon's fleeting beam; Swaying like palms when sirocco Dances the flow'r of Madrid! Ecstasy throbs in each measure,

Queen of the realm of delight; Music and song never fail her:
Blows over tropical isles; Bringing sweet scents from Morocco,
Bear'ing the soul to its height! Spain, oh, we welcome thy treasure,

Dark, gloomy fancies take flight! Tell'ing where sweet Eden smiles:
Dancer of joy and of light! Ah!
Follow! Follow! Yield to her witching might!

La Spagno-la was born to dance; Love and longing inspire her glance! Follow! Follow! Yield to her witching might!

La Spagno-la was born to dance; Love and longing inspire her glance!
