When You Are Truly Mine

When you are truly mine, sweetheart,
    Another rose will bloom,
Another bird will sing to me,
    The sunshine banish gloom;
And in the spaces of the sky
    Another star will shine—
The brightest of ten million stars—
    When you are truly mine.

When you are truly mine, at last,
    My cares and sorrows too
Will vanish like the silver mist—
    My dreams will all come true:
For you will be the world to me—
    My blessing from above—
When you are truly mine, sweetheart,
    To have, to hold, to love!
