The Queen Bee And The Drone

(A Love Tragedy)

By LOUIS WESLYN

This number may be rendered as a song, or as a recitation to the music.

Moderately bright tempo

A little queen bee lived

The little queen bee found

(See Note below)

in a hive, Hum,

out one day, Hum,

Fell in love with a drone sure as you're alive,

That the drone really worked in his own smooth way.

Hum, Hum,

Hum, Hum,

Now, the drone wouldn't work but would loaf all day, On a t rogue he was, As a love sick female always does, And her worth his while At all sweet lady bees to wink and smile, So she poor little heart would be fluttering, As this little song she'd sing:

slipped up behind, stabbed the drone to death, And hissed in a tragic breath:

NOTE - The queen bee sings the first refrain in a light, flirtatious manner, but intensely dramatic in the second refrain.

The day is ending, you're smiling then,
Tomorrows sending a struggle now;
We'll find a haven, our love to share.

Out where the men hide the day
A touch of light
Out where the, skies meet the crimson
Out where the sun and the star of the sky,
Out where the sorrow is ever present,
Out where the blue topaz
Dreams we once knew will return dear.

Love that is strong must abide,
And a nest in the West we'll find rest.
West of the Great Divide

The years we've waited, we will not forget,
Our hearts were bent since first we met,
The trail to Love's land, each dear, we'll find,
All care and sorrow, we'll leave behind.
