RECITATION

Son Of A Millionaire

Poor little rich boy - born I've been told
Covered with satins and a crib made of gold
Nurses and servants to watch over you
Your milk must be tested, your temperature too
You're pampered and cared for as if you would break
Your whole life is hampered, it's all a mistake
The schools we all go to won't do - not for you
Your tutor is special - a private school too
Your parents are busy in life's social swim
Your father with finance, you don't see much of him
Your mother can't give you, what you need my boy
Those loving caresses that poor kids enjoy
So when people envy you it just makes me smile
I wonder if your lot in life is worth while
There's no love to guide you - on life's stormy way
And yet, the whole world is so ready to say:
