If you would be single and of marriage you're afraid
Mary's folks had sworn she had to be some body's wife

Never mingle in a home where there's a shy old maid Johnny never saw such perfect team work in his life

If you say you'll never wed and think you know it all,
Father had the license read, Uncle had the hall,

Look at wise old Johnny Brown and how he came to fall,
He Grand-ma phoned the Par-son that it was a hurry call,
The

swore he'd never never take a wife, Par-son tied the knot and said "A-men". But Then.

let me tell you how he lost his life,
Mary's Grand-pa touched poor John for ten.

Chorus.

First he met her father, father took him home to tea Pa rolled back the parlor door and pushed poor Johnnie in

Father filled him full of Mother's cooking,
In the dark that wise old maid was lurking.

Mother said to Johnny "Mary cooks as well as me."
Mother said "she has too many beaux, I hope you win."

Uncle Eddie said "She's real good looking."
Sister set the dictograph a working.

Brother said to Johnny 'Short engagements are the thing'
Brother mixed a cocktail up for Johnnie on the sly

Sister said "Give me the money I'll pick out the ring" He's Grand-pa made him drink it then he kissed him self goodbye He married now, he don't know how or when and where or why, But they came to life beside his wife they hooked him high and dry, And they all had a finger in the pie pie

all had a finger in the pie pie
