There's A Little Spark Of Love Still Burning

Lyrics by JOE MCCARTHY

Music by
FRED FISCHER

Moderato

There was a fire burning
I left you laughing when I

in my heart,
said goodbye,

Burn-ing for years and for years,
Laugh-ing but no body knew

Your love and kiss-es gave that flame a start,
I put it out with my tears;
You don't re-mem-ber, I cant for-get,
you;
I've loved you more than you'll ever know,

How much re-lief I found when I could cry,
I cried my heart out for that old affection lives with me yet,
Tho' years have passed I've wanted you so,
Bring back the old love,

That old affection lives with me yet,
I keep on longing,

To my regret,
I know I can't forget.

Let new love grow,
come back and whisper low.

There's A Little Spark
There's a little spark of love still burning, And yearning down in my heart for you, There's a longing there for your returning, I want you! I do! So come, come to my heart again, Come, come, set that love a-flame, For there's a little spark of love still burning, and yearning for you._ There's a you._

"I Want to Go to Tokio"

Let Joe McCarty and Fred Fischer take you on the pleasantest trip in many a day—To Tokio.

See the little sweetheart, "Ho, Yo-San," across the sea—beneath the bamboo tree, sitting on a Jap-a-knee.

There have been many quaint Japanese songs written before, but never one so good as "I Want to Go to Tokio."

Here's how good a song "Tokio" is: You sing it once at a party or "song-fest"—it is good for all night. "I Want to Go to Tokio" is that good!

"I sing a high a-lee a-low"—which begins and ends the chorus—is a catchy bit of irresistible, tuneful, Oriental melody.

These pieces may also be procured for your Talking Machine or Player Piano.

Orchestra leaders will gladly play them on request.

"I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier"

There'd be no war today
If mothers all would say—
"I didn't raise my boy
To be a soldier!"

Here's the first anti-war song. A "made in America" hit. It's the song you've been waiting for. It's not the song of Militarism—it's a Mother's big-hearted appeal for the life of her boy; and, for the life of every mother's pride and joy.

"I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier" is a gripping, powerful message for eternal Peace.

It bids fair to far outstrip "Tipperary" in popularity.
