When They're Bringing In The Corn.

Words by ALFRED BRYAN.
INTRO. Moderato.

Music by SEYMOUR FURTH.

The hills with grain are golden, They are bringing in the corn, As 'Tis summer in its glory, And the corn is ripe again. And through the fields two rustic lovers stray, Though once again to-night he's by her side. He to his arm she's clinging, still his heart is all forlorn, For to whis-pers love's sweet story, but his joy is turned to pain, And she mid the city's splendor, He sighs in accent tender: "You'll night alone he's dreaming, Where tassel stalks are gleaming; 'Twas give your heart to one more highly born; But I'll there they kissed good-bye, on that bright morn. Now the whispers as they're coming through the corn, wan-ders home-ward lone-ly through the corn,

CHORUS Tenderly

"When they're bringing in the corn, I'll be think-ing Jes-sie dear, Of that sweet love you gave me When you were with me here. Where we roamed a-mid the clo-ver and birds sang sweet at morn, I'll be wait-ing for you Jes-sie When they're bringing in the corn."
