On The Island Of Pines

Lyric by ALFRED BRYAN

Music by HARRY CARROLL

There lies an island fair, 'mid tropic splendors rare, Set like a jewel upon the sea, I know a moon-lit way, where lovers come to stray, There by the trees where the cuckoos call, And by the pine tree's shade, a sentimental maid, Says her rosary every bench for two, where lovers come to woo, And the blossoms fall o'er the

In my heart a battle's raging, All my sympathies engaging,
'Gainst my heart their forces sending, General Love its fort defending,

Mother comes from sunny France, My daddy from Berlin,
One side waves red, white, and blue, On one red, white, and black,

Just across the Channel lies The land my girl lives in,
Yet another side displays the proud old "Union Jack."

CHORUS

There's the Fatherland, the Motherland, And the land of my best girl, They're all calling me, And I love the three, But make up my mind I can't, For in my heart's a triple entendre. That beats for one, and beats for all, Till my poor head's a-whirl. Over the Fatherland, the Motherland, And the land of my best girl. There's the girl.
