When I first gazed into your eyes of blue,
Love has a language that is never clear,
I had a dream of happiness with you.
You may think love has fled but it is near.
But your modesty deceived me, your shy manner pained and grieved me; I've left you, but now in one's eyes believes it; I've grown much wiser since that bygone year.

If I Had Known etc. 4.
CHORUS

If I had known that you cared, before I had gone away,

I'd have dared, for I now your answer would not have been "Nay." But your love was so great, dear, you hid it from sight and let me depart into the gloom of the night, I'd have won the glory and the joy of love's story if I had known that you cared.

NEW SONGS THAT ARE FULL OF NEW IDEAS

If I Had Known That You Cared
A melodious Waltz Ballad, written in a popular style, that will appeal to the discriminating music lover.

CHORUS

If I had known that you cared, before I had gone away, to speak of

Sing a Song of Dixieland
An entirely new idea in a Dixie number. A song of the South that will please the North, East and West.

CHORUS

If you are ever in doubt as to what to sing about, sing a song of Dixieland, for when you

I'm Going "Bugs" Over You
A humorous mixture of love, bugs and music. Clever lyrics with a "punch" in every line.

CHORUS

You're the personification of Oriental animation, that You're the personification of Oriental animation, that can not be found in the West, I've a burning sensa- can not be found in the West. And in my est-i-ma-

Right Under Your Nose
A Song about a kiss told in an interesting way with a toe-tickling Fox-Trot Melody.

CHORUS

There is a place, a certain place, where you get a real sensa- tion, and a feeling of e-la-tion,
