MADE IN U.S.A.
Down below the Mason-Dixon Line, they organized the first jazz band.

They all got together in a "Honky Tonk," and here's how jazz began.

CHORUS

The leader man he played the saxophone.

The harmony came from the slide trombone.
The cornet player used a mute.

That's The Way etc. - 3
boy! how he could toot! The clarinet, it did nothing but moan. From the banjo there came a wicked strum, tempo strict, with a stick, by the drum. They took classics of the past, and began to play them fast. Each played like a fiendish elf. It was eachman for himself. That's the way Dixieland started jazz. The jazz.

Writer of “Don’t You Remember The Time &
“In The Land Where They Don’t Say Good-bye” etc.

Love finds the way, So they all say, And love found you for me, My dreams of you, At last came true, When love found you for me.
