If my heart were wiser, I would try—
I have naught of sorrow, Love is nigh—

Just to turn and whisper "Goodbye."
Even though we whisper "Goodbye."

It were best to take your hand and leave you;
Though 'twere best to tell me naught of new love;

It were best, and yet "Farewell" might grieve you.
I have read your heart and found my true love.

Refrain
Grazioso (gracefully)

"Fancy our meeting. For just one fond greeting, When days are so fleeting and few."

"Paradise seeming. With no thought of scheming, A dream worth the dreaming come true."

For I have waited to tell you I need you so; Just hesitated, then let it go, yet you know; Fancy our meeting when days are so fleeting For just one fond greeting, We two!
