Nat: When a guy like Byron Would meet up with a siren,

Polly: Darling, I have never Heard such a grand endeavor,

In his dome He'd find a pome That made the girlie's skin burn.

Though your bent for sentiment Is not exactly to-ney.

I cannot spill passion In high-falutin' fashion;
Though you sing my praises In most peculiar phrases,

In afraid that with a maid I'll never be a Swinburne. But, Yet I see that they are free From what is called "bo-log-ney!" My though I'm not the slightest bit poetic,

dear, your kind of poetry will do me;

In my own way you will find me sympathetic.
'Fanny-bod-y doesn't like it; let him sue me!

Let me give you the lowdown:
I'm crazy to know that

I'm crazy for you.
You're crazy for me.

When it comes to a showdown
If you never outgrow that

I'm crazy for you.
How glad I shall be.
And so, though

love may not inspire my lingo, can't explain just what your success is,
Still it's making
But I keep k-my heart go bang-o! bing-o! Let me give you the raving your sweet caressesses. I'm k-razy to lowdown: that I'm k-razy for know that You're k-razy for you!
