Andantino quasi allegretto

Jim: You all have had your nights out and hung around cafes

fes Un - til they've put the lights out And sent you on your ways.

You walk into the morning, The air is damp and cool, You know that you're a fool. There's no one else to blame. You are sick of the game 'Til all at once the sky is brightened With a soft, pale gray It is day! When you see the day.

Jim: Maybe you will know her right away

Both: By a light within her eyes,

All: Shining like a sun about to rise!

When you see the rise!
