Moderato

1 (Jim) You are such a pal,
2 (Jockey) Oh my friend in need,

Don't know, never shall,
Why, you out distance All
You've been friend indeed, Saved me from danger I

other women in existence If you only knew, can't believe you're just a stranger. I've been waiting too,

How I've longed for you;
All these years for you,
I never thought you would ever come. What luck that brought you.
I mean to keep you now I've met you.

REFRAIN

Jim Dozens and dozens of girls I have met, Sisters and cousins of Jockey I've known so many, such hundreds of men, Distracted every instant men in my set; Tried to be cheerful and give them an earful Of except now and then, Flirted a minute, 'Twas fun to begin it But soft sort of talk, but, Oh, gosh! the strain was something fearful. Always found found out quite soon there was nothing, nothing, nothing in it. Often and after a minute or two Just to be civil was all I could often I used to get blue, Just went on flirting for something to do. Now I know why I could never be contented, I was do. Now I know why I'd that sense of something missing, I was looking for a pal like you. you.

looking for a pal like you. you.

It Wasn't My Fault

Music by JEROME KERN.

Words by HERES et REYNOLDS.

Of course, I see now I was wrong... (It was all) Till I met you and then good sight... (It was all)

and with great simplicity

And all I did was fall
