Moderato

Tho' traitors in our land exist, And men with treachrous acts assist the deadly Hun, to trample down the free man's rights, our fair renown, We

send this cheer to Britain's strand,  "We're British still,  O, Motherland!"  We send this cheer to Britain's strand,  We're British still,  O, Motherland!"  No British subject could withhold,  Tho' bribed by pow'r or Germangold,  The help our soldiers sorely need, To smash the monster German greed, And so we shout to Britain's strand, "We're British still, O, Mother-land!" And so we shout to Britain's

Our boys have died on Flanders' field That we, in our fair land, might yield Our manhood's strength in freedom's cause, Defend ing our fair name and laws, And still we shout to Brit ain's strand, 'We're British still, O, Motherland!' And still we shout to Britain's strand, 'We're British still, O, Motherland!' O, Moth er-land, we'll aye be true

To thee, our fealty we re-new, Shoulder to shoulder with thee stand, At home, a-broad, "In No Man's Land"! One rousing cheer to thee we send, "We're British still,

We're British still,
We're British still,
O, Mother-land!"
