About the Play...

Wait Here and Think!

I wish to pose a fantasy in which I ask you to indulge, for but a moment. Imagine being incarcerated, far from the world and its many normalizations you currently experience unconsciously. Much like an alien, when you first lay sight on this distant plain called 'earth' and as you begin to grow privy to it, what do you envision your thoughts to be?

Would this world seem to you as a many-headed, lawless, bloodthirsty hydra seeking only to restrict and feed upon its conformant; an ever hungry monstrosity that has surfaced from your worst nightmare? Or, would you think of this world as all that you had wished for? Resembling paradise, where Lady Justice is upheld as queen over thrones of gold and tongues of silver?

Director's Note:

Life Is A Dream is the continuation of Glendon Theatre's experiment in interactive theatre through social media. Our students were actively involved in the collective adaptation of Calderon's classic masterpiece; trying to find ways to explain our contemporary world to someone who was incarcerated against their will for all of their life. Hopefully, you will help us find answers to some burning issues of today's society.
