Director's Note: Although set at the turn of the century, Mariage Blanc reveals nothing less than a contemporary world. Mental and physical abuse is too often a part of the lives men and women share. This violence is born of an insecurity and fear present within each of us. Society deftly uses repression to separate emotion from biology, love from sex, honesty from desire. Where do we place ourselves - in society's secure propriety or in nature's uncontrollable and passionate domain? As the play unfolds, reality and fantasy blur and we feel uncomfortable on the safe, sanitary edges of the stage - even while we are laughing. The paths taken in this piece are not individual adventures but segments of lives, our lives, brought under a microscope we are usually too frightened to use. -Dominique Davies.

Playwright's Biography:
Tadeusz Rozewicz (1921 -) is considered one of the most important voices in modern Polish drama. His canon of work includes volumes of poetry, essays, dramas, and film and television scripts. He studied art history in order to comprehend aesthetics and ethics, and these sensibilities are reflected in his work. Poetic values are rendered concrete through a rich and sensual language, and are embellished with a suggestive vocabulary of movement. He seeks to emphasize individual versus collective humanity in this work.

The performance will run approximately 90 minutes. There will be no intermission.
